Gentlemen:

Recently I read in a magazine article of the opening of your new wing, and about the two paintings by Pol, which had been presented by Mr. Booth. May I ask if these have been reproduced in a bulletin or otherwise? If not, whether they have been published to your knowledge, and what would be the cost of a photograph of each, in the advent that a reproduction is not available otherwise?

Yours very truly,

Secretary.

Gentlemen:

This morning I received the prints of the two pictures by Ferdinand Bol which you have so courteously sent me. I am particularly interested in the work of this painter and for that reason doubly glad to have these specimens of his work in your gallery.

Yours very truly,

Secretary.
